SCHOOL DESIGNED PRACTICUM COURSES

Temple Law School is pleased to announce the following Fall 2023 School Designed Practicum courses. Please see each individual description to learn what materials to submit, to whom you should submit the materials, and the application deadline.

A Practicum combines an experiential learning project with supervision and evaluation by a member of the full-time faculty. Some Practicum courses are designed individually by the student in consultation with a faculty member; others are recurring projects that faculty members sponsor, like those listed below.

Below is a table of contents grouping our School Designed Practicums in three broad categories: Confirmed, Pending Confirmation, and No Longer Accepting Applications. The practicum opportunities confirmed for next semester are further organized by application deadline date.

We encourage you to apply for any practicum opportunities that are confirmed or pending confirmation for Fall 2023. The information contained in Pending Confirmation section, including whether the practicum will ultimately be offered in Fall 2023, is subject to change. In the event we confirm that any of our practicums pending confirmation will not run in the fall, we will notify applicants and update this catalogue accordingly.

Students who wish to apply for more than one School Designed Practicum should email lawpract@temple.edu with a list of the practicums to which they wish to apply ranked in order of preference.

If you have additional questions or would like further guidance on Practicum selection for Fall 2023, please contact lawpract@temple.edu.

JUDICIAL INTERNSHIP PRACTICUM (HONORABLE J. SCOTT O'KEEFE, CRIMINAL DIVISION)

There are two slots available for second- and third-year law students in this Practicum.

The experiential learning project offered with this Practicum is with the Honorable J. Scott O'Keefe, Philadelphia Court of Common Pleas, Criminal Division. Judge O'Keefe presides over homicide cases. Practicum students will have the unique opportunity to witness the inner workings of homicide cases in a courtroom setting. Students will observe homicide trials, which often involve video evidence of the crime scenes. Students will also observe sentencings, which often include emotional testimonies from the families of the victims. The experiences can be emotionally challenging but provide invaluable insights into the complexities of criminal law and the impact of violent crimes on individuals and society.

In this practicum, students will closely observe homicide trials, and during sidebar or backroom conferences, students will witness legal arguments and objections from both prosecuting and defense attorneys. Students may also have the opportunity to visit other courtrooms to observe and learn from diverse judicial styles. Students will trial strategies, legal tactics, and how different judges handle cases.

This Practicum is ideal for law students who are committed to, or interested in learning more about, criminal law, particularly homicide cases. (Please note that due to the emotionally charged nature of the cases and the exposure to sensitive content, this practicum may not be suitable for everyone.) Students will need to commit to a minimum of 6.5 to 10 hours per week to this Practicum depending on the number of credits they prefer. If you are interested in this opportunity, please forward a cover letter/statement of interest addressed to the "Honorable J. Scott O'Keefe, Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia County, 1221 Criminal Justice Center, 1301 Filbert Street, Philadelphia, PA 19107" and a resume to lawpract@temple.edu by 12 p.m. on July 28, 2023.

CRIMINAL LAW PRACTICUM (PHILADELPHIA DISTRICT ATTORNEY'S OFFICE BRADY DIVISION)

There is one slot available for a second-, third-, or fourth-year law student in this Practicum supervised by Professor Jules Epstein.

The experiential learning project offered with this Practicum is with the Philadelphia District Attorney's Office new Brady Unit. The student will work on issues surrounding a prosecutor's office's compliance with the constitutional requirement to turn over all favorable, material evidence to the defense prior to trial pursuant to Brady v. Maryland. Brady violations produce wrongful convictions, burdensome litigation, expensive legal settlements, and renewed trauma to victims—the District Attorney is firmly committed to preventing them.

The student will work directly with a special advisor to the District Attorney (as well as other ADAs) to examine past and present Philadelphia DAO Brady practices and research other jurisdictions' approaches to ensuring prosecutors' full compliance with Brady.

Interested students should have already taken Criminal Procedure II or a comparable course (e.g. Death Penalty). If you are interested in this opportunity, please forward a cover letter/statement of interest addressed to “Matthew Stiegler and Sarah Boyette,” resume, transcript, and short writing sample to lawpract@temple.edu by 12:00 pm on July 28, 2023. Your cover letter should include a discussion of your interest in working specifically on issues surrounding Brady compliance or in a progressive prosecutor's office more generally. Research-based writing samples, as well as litigation materials, are appropriate for this application.

LABOR LAW PRACTICUM (U.S. DEPARTMENT OF LABOR, OFFICE OF THE SOLICITOR)

There are multiple slots available for second- and third-year law students in this Practicum.

The experiential learning project offered with this Practicum is with the U.S. Department of Labor's Office of the Solicitor, Philadelphia Regional Office. The Philadelphia Regional Solicitor's Office is responsible for most civil trial litigation and legal support for the U.S. DOL in several states including Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Delaware, and the District of Columbia. The Office is primarily involved in the enforcement of a number of federal laws that ensure that our region's workers are employed in safe and healthy workplaces, are paid at least the federal minimum and overtime wage rates, and are treated without regard to race, color, sex, national origin, religion, or status as a whistleblower, a person with disability or a veteran.

In this Practicum, students will be engaged in an immersive litigation experience and be permitted a “deep dive” into complex and compelling labor cases involving FLSA, OSHA, MSHA, ERISA, and whistleblower cases, among others. Students will perform legal research, draft motions, help propound and respond to discovery, help prepare for taking and defending depositions, and prepare for and participate in settlement conferences, various in-court motions practice and proceedings, pre-trial conferences, and trial.

This Practicum is ideal for second- or third-year law students who are committed to, or interested in learning more about, litigation and labor law. Students must commit to 10 hours per week. This placement is expected to be remote at this point. If you are interested, please forward your resume, writing sample, and a cover letter/statement of interest addressed to “Ryan C. Atkinson, Senior Trial Attorney, Office of the Solicitor, Region III, U.S. Department of Labor, 1835 Market Street, Mailstop SOL/22, Philadelphia, PA 19103-2968” to lawpract@temple.edu by 12:00 pm on July 28, 2023.

B. Application Deadline: August 1, 2023

CRIMINAL JUSTICE PRACTICUM (PHILADELPHIA LAWYERS FOR SOCIAL EQUITY)

There are two slots available for second- and third-year law students in this Practicum supervised by Associate Dean Kristen Murray.

Philadelphia Lawyers for Social Equity (PLSE) offers free legal representation to low-income clients who are trying to clear their criminal records so they can qualify for better jobs, housing, credit, and other benefits. (By way of background, if someone is arrested in Pennsylvania and charged with a crime, even they never had to attend court or were later found not guilty after a trial, or anything in between, they still have a criminal record. Unless it is sealed or a judge orders it to be erased or expunged, that criminal record is permanently available on the internet to the public. The only way to get a conviction off your record, even if it was committed decades ago, is to get a pardon from the Governor of Pennsylvania.) Through its Criminal Record Expungement Project, PLSE files petitions for expungement that, after a hearing, could result in a judicial order that commands the City and State police and other agencies to remove the information of that person's criminal history from their record. PLSE files over 2,400 expungement petitions per year. Additionally, PLSE has a growing community education and outreach program.

In this Practicum, students will have a range of duties, with tasks varying week to week. Students will conduct intakes at community clinics and on the phone, draft and review expungement petitions, inform clients about updates in their case, and accompany the attorney to court. Students who are certified legal interns under Rules 321 or 322 of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court may have the opportunity to argue motions for expungement in court. Students will conduct research and write legal memoranda. There will be opportunities for public speaking and community presentations, as well as attending and tabling at community events. Students will have an opportunity to have a hand in their rapidly evolving pardon project and help develop the curriculum. PLSE is a rapidly growing small organization, and as such, there are constantly evolving projects that require creativity, flexibility, and initiative.

This Practicum is ideal for students with an interest in criminal justice, public policy, and public interest. Students must commit at least 10 hours a week to this Practicum. The experiential component of this Practicum will be in-person. If you are interested, please send a resume and cover letter addressed to "Philadelphia Lawyers for Social Equity Practicum Selection Committee" to lawpract@temple.edu by 12:00 pm on August 1, 2023.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE POLICY PRACTICUM (PUBLIC DEFENDERS ASSOCIATION OF PENNSYLVANIA)

Its mission is to provide tools, strategies, mutual support, training and information to Public Defender Offices in Pennsylvania; to be the voice of public defense in Pennsylvania; and to promote best practices in the leadership, management, and administration of justice in Pennsylvania.

In this Practicum, students will work to support and build community for Pennsylvania's Public Defenders by engaging in some or all of the following:

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE PRACTICUM (WOMEN AGAINST ABUSE)

There is one slot available for second- and third-year law students in this Practicum supervised by Professor Sarah Katz.

With regard to legal representation, WAA engages in intake and direct advocacy. Each year approximately 12,000 petitions for protection from abuse orders are filed in Philadelphia. The majority of individuals seeking a protection from abuse order are unable to procure an attorney and must navigate complex legal processes on their own. In addition, many petitioners face escalating threats from an abuser to drop their case. Consequently, less than one third of petitioners obtain a final order of protection.

Students will spend the first semester focused on Protection from Abuse cases, developing client interviewing and counseling skills, engaging in case analysis, and assisting in preparing cases for litigation. Students that participate in the year-long practicum will expand their work in the second semester to additionally focus on child custody, child support, and spousal support cases, will lead their own intakes, and prepare their own case reviews. The Council pursues cutting-edge litigation, participates in federal and state rulemakings, watchdogs environmental permitting, and champions impactful policy reforms; all in close collaboration with impacted communities.

The Council was founded in 1967 by a group of forward-looking community leaders, policy makers, and progressive business leaders. Headquartered in Philadelphia, the Council made a name for itself by the mid-1970s as the result of two major achievements: establishing and distributing a daily regional air quality index report (still in use today); and forcing Pennsylvania to implement its vehicle emissions testing program. The Council is continuing this tradition of tackling big challenges through programs to address the public health and environmental threats caused by shale gas extraction and distribution, climate change, developments in our energy markets and infrastructure, and major stationary sources of air pollution.

The Council maintains an active litigation docket addressing a broad range of environmental health issues in Pennsylvania and beyond. The Council regularly brings cases in both state and federal courts and before agency tribunals, such as Pennsylvania's Environmental Hearing Board and Public Utility Commission. We litigate a wide variety of issues within the realm of air quality regulation, water law, and energy law. The Council also engages in a significant amount of policy work, leading the charge on a variety of issues in Pennsylvania such as Pennsylvania's implementation of carbon cap and trade and regulation of methane emissions.

Students participating in the practicum will make substantive contributions to the Council's legal program and, with full support from senior attorneys, will take on staff attorney-level tasks. ENVIRONMENTAL LAW PRACTICUM (CENTER FOR PROGRESSIVE REFORM)

There is one slot available for second- and third-year law students in this Practicum supervised by Professor Amy Sinden.

The experiential learning project offered with this Practicum, the Toxic Floodwater Assessment and Risk Reduction Project along the Delaware River, is with Center for Progressive Reform. The Center for Progressive Reform harnesses the power of law and public policy to create a responsive government, a healthy environment, and a just society. See www.progressivereform.org for more information about the organization and its activities.

Objective:

Rising seas, destructive storm surges, more frequent and heavier rainfall and flooding— the impacts of climate change are present and projected to amplify in the Delaware River Basin over the next several decades. With many industrial and chemical storage facilities along the banks of the Delaware River and its tributaries, the region is increasingly vulnerable to catastrophic chemical and hazardous waste releases, threatening the health, safety, and security of local communities, many of which are already marginalized.

While flooding is common in the Delaware River Basin, many of the region’s residents, especially low-wealth and Black and Brown families, are especially vulnerable to the effects of climate change. And as extreme weather events become more frequent and severe in the coming years, this region faces an elevated risk of catastrophic hazardous chemical spills driven by flooding and other climate impacts.

To advance climate and environmental justice in these communities and strengthen public health protections, the Center for Progressive Reform will coordinate with an interdisciplinary team of legal and policy practitioners and scholars, environmental scientists, communications specialists, grassroots advocates, and technical experts to conduct groundbreaking scientific and policy research into the risks toxic chemical spills pose to regional communities; develop and implement a communications strategy to amplify findings; and undertake advocacy around the issue.

Duties and Responsibilities:

- (1) identify the industrial facilities in the Delaware River Basin at greatest risk of flooding and chemical disaster through the first-of-its kind geospatial map;
- (2) analyze the regulatory and operational gaps that contribute to these risks of major releases;
- (3) identify and engage the communities most vulnerable to harm in collaborative research, communications, and advocacy;
- (4) develop and promote dynamic and sustained multimedia public communications; and
- (5) collaboratively develop and advocate for strategies to prevent catastrophic spills.

To elevate our findings and recommendations, the intern will aid policy analyst in background research for a public report, containing at least 8-10 maps demonstrating various industrial risks to vulnerable communities in the lower Delaware River Basin and identifying policy gaps and recommendations for Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Delaware.

This Practicum is ideal for law students who are committed to, or interested in learning more about, a career in environmental law, policy, and public interest. If you are interested in this opportunity, please forward a cover letter/statement of interest addressed to “Center for Progressive Reform” and resume to lawpract@temple.edu.
