

Cutting Sign to the Legal Profession

September 29-30, 2023

At the University of Utah S.J. Quinney College of Law
Salt Lake City, Utah

We cordially invite you to attend the second annual Cutting Sign to the Legal Profession event!

Open to students of Native American/American Indian, Alaska Native, First Nations, and other North American Indigenous heritage.

The program covers all costs that cannot be covered by a student's law school. Funding for the program is available on a first-come, first-served basis, so REGISTER TODAY!

This event will help Native law students break into the legal profession by attending panels with Native judges and practitioners, honing career skills, developing a personal brand, networking with professionals, and participating in a day of interviewing with employers from across the country. Sessions will include resume/cover letter workshops, mock interviews, networking skills, and specific advice on applying for judicial clerkships, as well as in-house, firm, governmental, JD advantage, and other jobs.

Last year's Cutting Sign event brought together over 30 Native law students from around the continent, and we look forward to an even larger program this year. Both new and returning attendees are encouraged to apply! This year there will be additional speakers, new and augmented programming, and even more opportunities to connect with other Native students.

September 28 – Arrive in Salt Lake City | September 29 – Cutting Sign Day 1
September 30 – Cutting Sign Day 2 | October 1 – Depart Salt Lake City
